

I am writing in support of continuing the system whereby K-Love radio (and other radio stations) are able to broadcast using FM translator service. Expansion of LPFM would jeopardize the ability of K-Love and other such radio stations to reach there target audience if the FCC decides to give LPFM priority. K-LOVE is an important part of many communities. They reach people who are in despair and have stopped numerous people from taking their own life. As dramatic as that sounds, this is true. They are able to touch many lives by sharing the love of Jesus over the public airwaves, the same airwaves the FCC currently allows other oposing views to operate over. By eliminating frequencies used by K-Love, the FCC would in effect be discriminating against christians and those who christians want to share with. The beauty of K-Love is also that if you are opposed to its views, you can simply turn the station (the same way one turns off the profanity and sexual inuendo that the FCC apparantly promotes as it is so prolific on the airwaves). If it is in the best interest of the nation to have openeness and expression of differing views, then it is of paramount importance that the FCC deny the proposal to expand LPFM unless priority is given to those stations using the translator that would be affected by LPFM and NO ADDITIONAL COSTS would be placed on those stations. Thank you for your kind consideration to these comments.
